Love To Our Bodies™ Letters

Gwendolyn Mitchell
President/CEO

While conducting research for the LOVE LETTERS TO OUR BODIES project, it became apparent that there is a wealth of resources available to support people journeying with cancer. This Resource Guide was assembled from that research. Among the data are: Support groups, both allopathic and complementary approaches to treatment, transportation to appointments, cosmetic, financial assistance, and more.

This guide is not exhaustive; however, many of the websites included have resource sections as well. Please explore the treasure trove of informational, financial and other support services available to assist you or loved ones who are in treatment for cancer. Use the blank pages in the back to add other helpful resources that you find. i Remember, you are not alone. You have the support of many who have walked this same path.

PAY ATTENTION TO YOUR BODY

It does not necessarily mean that cancer is present, but it is a sign you should not ignore. If the cause of your symptoms is cancer, early diagnosis and treatment will offer a better chance of cure.
